IDforDeduplication: Notice how the IDforDeduplication is four different numbers within these eight rows. Since each NORMAL_HEADING_2450 is identical, and there are two numbers in the YourLibraryBIB_ID column, these eight rows are the result of one row for each bib, for each request.

YourLibBIB_ID: There are two values in this column, meaning that your library has 2 BIBs where the record had the same NORMAL_HEADING 2450 value as the requests. With multiple matches, you need to review the other fields such as author, title, publisher, and publisher date to determine if there is a match.

RequestNetworkNumber and YourLibNetworkNumber: Your library has two OCLC numbers for this normalized title, (OCoLC)ocm32367111 and (OCoLC)ocm03328401 . The request placed by your patrons were for OCLC numbers (OCoLC)ocm32367111 and (OCoLC)ocm04498883. So your library does have a bib that matches 3 of the request, but not a bib that matches the fourth request. Publisher and Publication years show the differences.

RequestPubDate and YourLibPubDate: These values can help you determine which edition or publication year the patron requested, vs. the edition/publication year owned at your library. For some requests the publication year may matter more than others.

NORMAL_HEADING_2450: These eight results all have the same normalized title. Using other information about the title, such as author, publisher, publisher date, and OCLC number can help you confirm a match, or not.
