IDforDeduplication: Notice how the IDforDeduplication is different for each row, incremented by one digit.

YourLibBIB_ID: This column contains one BIB_ID number for your library; meaning both requests matched to the same bib.

RequestNetworkNumber and YourLibNetworkNumber: Both columns contain the same OCLC number, meaning that this is an exact match.

RequestPubDate and YourLibPubDate: Both columns contain the same number, meaning that this is an exact match.

NORMAL_HEADING_2450: Notice that the NORMAL_HEADING_2450s are both different; this means that this was actually a single patron request for an item with two Normalized Titles, rather than two separate requests for the same item.

Notice how the date, patron group, and request status are the same; when everything matches for a request including the NORMAL_HEADING_2450, that represents multiple requests for the same title on the same date by your patrons. When the NORMAL HEADING 2450 is different, that represents a single request.
